PUBLISHER OF THE CONNCODE CONNECTICUT BUILDING CODE

Remember the good old “BLUE BOOK”?

Originally, the State of Connecticut State Building Code was published as a single volume. That was almost thirty years ago, in 1971, when Connecticut adopted its first mandatory statewide building code. Amendments to the Code were adopted in 1974, and again a single volume was published. In 1981, the Connecticut Basic Building Code was published, once more as a single volume. Each of these publications was a comprehensive industry sourcebook which combined the original codes and amendments into one book – the “Blue Book.”

And then things started to get complicated

Add another book, and yet another book... Welcome to “Book Juggling 101”

In 1987, The Connecticut Building Code was updated. Again, in 1989, the Code was updated. Each of those times Connecticut adopted the BOCA National Building Code and the BOCA National Supplement, together with the Connecticut Supplement. This resulted in the development of a new industry-related skill known as “Book Juggling.”

Switching from book to book to check the Code, its amendments and any subsequent updates – This is a task which quickly becomes tiresome.

An Industry Protested and CONNCODE Answered.

ConnCode Publications was formed in 1993 by Bruce J. Spiewak, AIA, a Connecticut Architect who specializes in Code Compliance Consulting.

Bruce Spiewak has been providing Connecticut Code Consulting to Architects, Engineers, Code Officials, Institutions, Builders, Developers, and Attorneys since 1982. As Technical Editor for ConnCode Publications, Mr. Spiewak provides the insight needed to compile the Connecticut Building Codes into one comprehensive volume.

The ConnCode Connecticut Building Code 1994, 1997 Edition was well-received throughout the Connecticut construction industry as was the 1999 Edition. Now the 2001 edition is available.
